

Write a thank-you note to a teacher, coach, or neighbor.	Share a place that makes you feel safe and happy, and why.
Eat a snack with no hands, "turkey style."	Take a "gratitude walk" and point out five things you're thankful for along the way.
Give someone a compliment they won't expect.	Everyone tells their funniest memory from the past year.
Build a blanket fort and read or snack inside it.	Make a pinecone turkey or a leaf-print placemat.
Describe your day using only turkey sounds while everyone guesses what happened.	Have a family dance party with everyone picking one song.
Paint the Thankful Spoons to give to family & friends.	Hold the door or give a smile to a stranger today.

Share something you're thankful for that you can taste.	Stargaze or sunset-watch together with hot cocoa.
Make thankful place cards for the Thanksgiving table.	Say "Thanksgiving turkey trot" five times fast.
Clean up a spot in your house that someone else usually handles, as a surprise.	Rewrite a favorite song's chorus with Thanksgiving words, then perform it.
Make a "Thanksgiving menu" for the big day and vote on a family-favorite dish.	Tell a story where every sentence has to include the word "gobble."
Say one thing you're thankful for about your home.	Do a family stretch or yoga session, turkey pose included.

Take turns reading the silliest knock-knock jokes you can find

Walk like a turkey across the room without letting your “feathers” (arms) touch the floor.

Play “Turkey Charades,” acting out Thanksgiving foods or activities.

